

Collaborate with Regional Educators to Advance Job Training, ManpowerGroup Tells U.S. Employers

October 5, 2012 at 11:42 AM EDT

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 5, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- ManpowerGroup (NYSE: MAN), the world leader in innovative workforce solutions, advocates that U.S. companies develop the skills of their local populations by collaborating with regional educators, as the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics today reported the overall September jobless rate fell to 7.8 % from August's 8.1% rate. The U.S. private sector added 114,000 new jobs last month, while August's jobs figure was revised up from 96,000 to 142,000 and July's figure was revised up from 141,000 to 181,000.

"As the U.S. jobless rate fluctuates, employers must stay focused on building out a long-term workforce strategy if they want to gain an edge over their competitors who are also forced to develop the in-demand skilled talent, which has become increasingly scarce in the Human Age," said Jeffrey A. Joerres, ManpowerGroup Chairman and CEO. "One essential strategy for building a talent pipeline is for companies to advise local educators on the skills and training they demand now and will demand in the future."

"Likewise, individuals must stay focused on strategizing long-term employment security by ensuring they develop the skills that employers will demand in the future," Joerres added. "More solutions that develop and align area talent with the right opportunities must be developed at state levels to enhance the growth of U.S. companies and regional economies."

ManpowerGroup Solutions' Strategic Workforce Consulting business is working with Competitive Wisconsin Inc. (CWI) to develop a long-term workforce strategy for the state. The initiative is part of CWI's ongoing "Be Bold" program to enhance how Wisconsin competes, grows jobs and strengthens its economy. The program works to produce clusters of in-demand skilled workers that help the current workforce, support employers and position Wisconsin as a top destination state for both talent and businesses.

In South Dakota, where unemployment remains under 5%, ManpowerGroup has been hired by the state as part of an effort called "South Dakota Wins" to recruit more than 1,000 new workers across the U.S. for open positions. Jobs range in industries from manufacturing to engineering to information technology. <http://www.southdakotawins.com>

The Manpower Employment Outlook Survey for Q4 in the United States was the strongest fourth quarter outlook in five years. According to seasonally adjusted data, hiring intentions have grown increasingly confident throughout the last three years with no declines in the Net Employment Outlook quarter-over-quarter. The continued climb in confidence marks three years of gradually improving hiring intentions, which were preceded by three quarters of pessimistic employment plans. Hiring intentions continue to climb with employers in 49 out of 50 states reporting positive hiring intentions. Similarly, employers in 99 out of the 100 largest Metropolitan Statistical Areas report positive hiring intentions to close out the year.

According to ManpowerGroup's 2012 Talent Shortage Survey results, 49% of U.S. employers struggle to fill mission-critical positions. Skilled trades, engineering and IT positions continue to rank among the top 10 hardest jobs to fill, year after year.
