"Soft skills and practical work experience are vital whether you are at the start of your career or further along in your journey," said Nafessa Burdine, Community Investment Manager of Corporate Affairs, ManpowerGroup. "Developing employability by ensuring young people are work ready when they leave education is one of the core pillars of our global Sustainability Plan, and it's a responsibility we have taken seriously for over 70 years. It's particularly exciting to be making an impact in our home town, helping our young people and partnering with the community to build local talent".

The Youth Summit is just one of the ways ManpowerGroup is sharing workforce expertise to make a positive impact in the local community. The event follows the success of the *Success Starts Here!
